

CANCER PREVENTION AND TREATMENT SERIES

Protecting Yourself and Your Family from Liver and Colorectal Cancers

The medical experts at The Center for Cancer Prevention and Treatment are passionate about preventing and treating cancer. That's why they are at the forefront of medical innovation - pioneering new medical treatments and partnering with cancer experts throughout the country in conducting advanced research. Our medical experts are equally passionate about caring for people, which is why they encourage you to play an active role in learning all you can about colorectal and liver cancers. What you learn today can help ensure a healthier tomorrow for you and your family.
